

MIND- BLOWING Beauty

Sometimes destiny is found on the road intended to avoid it. This could not be better illustrated than through the serendipitous journey of the Incomparable Diamond – the world's largest, internally-flawless diamond, whose journey began in the Congo over 30 years ago when it was discovered by a young girl from a discarded pile of kimberlite – an igneous by-product of diamond mining. This almost missed, one-of-a-kind yellow diamond, once honoured by the Smithsonian, is now the centrepiece in Mouawad's Incomparable Diamond Necklace. It costs a mind-blowing RM176.6 million.